

PORTUGUESE FRUIT

They are fruit trees that hold traditions and stories of the lands where they predominate.

Our main goal is to bring to the consumer's table delicious fruit, produced according to high parameters of quality and food safety.

PÊRA ROCHA (PEAR)

This Portuguese variety was casually identified about 170 years ago, in the lands of Mr. Rocha, having assumed the name Pêra-Rocha. It is produced and cultivated according to local methods. It is a traditional product, of quality, which is an integral part of the Portuguese Cultural Heritage.

Its exterior is characterized by its scale, which varies from percentage and concentration according to the weather conditions of the year. Its pulp has a white color, is soft and deep, grainy, sweet and very juicy with slightly accented perfume.

It has Vitamins A, B1, B2, C and E; Diethctic Fibers; High potassium concentration; Protein Source; Powerful antioxidant.

Supreme Category - minimum caliber of 55 mm and average caliber of 60/65 mm, with an average weight of 130g.

It has great conservation capacity.

Maçã Gala

“An apple a day keeps the doctor away”

The history of this fruit begins in 1154 with the installation of the first monks and the cultivation of fruit trees, especially apple trees. For decades this is a product of excellence, of the most aromatic and crispy in the world.

Reddish-colored thin peel, with shades of yellow and green, is a sweet apple with a slight vanilla flavor. It is rich in antioxidants and nutrients.

Extra Category – Minimum caliber 65mm

Category 1 – Minimum caliber 60mm

The "Extra Category" apples are packed into ordered layers, the remaining categories are packed in such a way as to ensure convenient product protection.

Its conservation in good condition is about 5 months in conventional atmosphere (normal) and 7 months in controlled atmosphere.

By NCAMPELO

Truly Portuguese

Anabela Monteiro
Sales Manager
+ 351 962 310 693
sales@ncampelo.com
export@ncampelo.com

Qianyu Zhou 周倩宇
CEO - Asia Business Director
亚洲业务总监
+351 934 733 604
qianzy@ncampelo.com
WeChat: Ines_ZQY

HEADQUARTERS

Rua do Couto, 170 – Cabaços
4990-565 Ponte de Lima
PORTUGAL

MAIN OFFICE

Rua Joaquim Maria Simões, 1
2560-281 Torres Vedras
LISBOA - PORTUGAL

www.ntugal.ncampelo.com